Hurricane Sale== In the track of great and general calamities always follow others, in intervals, which, it is true, are smaller in extent, but nevertheless of great and painful importance to those who are concerned in it. The devastation and desolation which the Hurricane has left behind it, and has caused so much damage to life and property, is bound to be followed by a great disturbance in Dry Goods circles. Thousands of people have lost what they had, and thousands of others will refrain from buying for fear of the uncertain future. But our house is crowded with all kinds of goods from top to bottom, and we can not afford to wait and keep them, and take chances in hopes it might turn out better than it looks. We have, therefore, inaugurated a Hurricane Sale right at the beginning of the season. That means the prices must fall as if struck by a hurricane. Profits are not of question-even cost will not be considered. The goods must move, and, if low prices can do it, they will move as fast as if driven by a hurricane. The prices will startle our community as the hurricane did. Who has a dollar left come to our store and invest it here, for never in a lifetime will anyone get as much for a dollar as they will get at Brown's during this Hurricane Sale. It is a chance of a lifetime--take advantage of it. We must economize now with the dollar, and Brown's give you now the opportunity to do so. Read the price list below, and these few items speak for themselves:
